Summary of programme aims

The aims of the programme in Education and Training for Development

- Explain the role of formal, non-formal and informal education in human resource development with a particular focus on adult education and training
- Develop and strengthen professional competence in the analysis of policy frameworks and implementation strategies of national education and training systems

Transferable skills

The programme requires a substantial amount of independent reading, research and study and students are expected to take personal responsibility and show initiative in developing their knowledge and understanding of the field of study. In following this programme students will also have the opportunity to enhance and develop their skills relating to communication (oral and written), presentations, information handling, problem solving, teamwork, and the use of information technology. Students will learn to work independently, under time pressures, and will learn to set priorities and manage their time in order to meet strict deadlines. Career planning, via choice of modules, will be an integral part of the programme.

Programme content

Postgraduate Certificate (60 credits):

Students take three specialist modules (30 credits) including EDM043 and either IDM015 or IDM004 and two core modules (IDM001 and IDM002) (30 credits) to total 60 credits

Postgraduate Diploma (120 credits):

Students take three specialist modules (30 credits) including EDM043 and either IDM015 or IDM004 and two core modules (IDM001 and IDM002) (30 credits) and select a further 60 credits from a wide range of taught modules, subject to satisfying any module pre-requisites, to total 120 credits

Summary of teaching and assessment

Teaching is organised in modules. The delivery of materials takes a variety of forms including lectures, classes, seminars and group exercises.

Assessment is modular and involves coursework and for some modules unseen examinations. The nature of the assessment is determined by the aims of the module.

A dissertation supervisor is appointed for each student.

Admission requirements

Entrants to this programme are normally required to have obtained an honours degree or its equivalent in a relevant subject but applicants with other qualifications, as may be approved by the Senate, and who have at least 2 years' professional experience in a relevant field of development work, are also eligible to apply for admission to this programme. References are also taken into account.

Admissions Tutor:                      The programme director is responsible for admissions

Support for students and their learning

University support for students and their learning falls into two categories. Learning support includes IT Services, which has several hundred computers and the University Library, which across its three sites holds over a million volumes, subscribes to around 4,000 current periodicals, has a range of electronic sources of information and houses the Student Access to Independent Learning (S@IL) computer-based teaching and learning facilities. There are language laboratory facilities both for those students studying on a language degree and for those taking modules offered by the Institution-wide Language Programme. Student guidance and welfare support is provided by Programme Directors, the Careers Advisory Service, the University's Special Needs Advisor, Study Advisors, Hall Wardens and the Students' Union.

A Study Skills module is available to support learning throughout the taught component of the programme and to develop independent learning skills required for successful completion of the Dissertation

Career prospects

Students who have followed this programme are working as teachers, trainers and administrators in a wide variety of development organisations including bi- and multi-lateral aid agencies, Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs) and within governmental institutions.

Opportunities for study abroad or for placements

With the agreement of the supervisor, students may be allowed to study abroad or take up placements during the Summer Term as part of their dissertation work.

Educational aims of the programme

The aim of the programme in Education and Training for Development is to equip graduates with the understanding, skills and confidence to become competent reflexive professionals, capable of working across a wide range of contexts concerning planned development intervention which have a particular focus on education or training.
