Summary of programme aims

The programme in Italian and Management Studies seeks to develop students' intellectual potential and understanding of Italian language and culture (including literature and history) in conjunction with the development of a range of key functional aspects of business and management.

Transferable skills

The University's Strategy for Teaching and Learning has identified a number of generic transferable skills which all students are expected to have developed by the end of their degree programme. In following this degree programme, students will have had the opportunity to enhance their skills relating to career management, communication (both written and oral), information handling, numeracy, problem-solving, team working and use of information technology. Students of Italian and Management will develop their abilities to deal with intellectual problems effectively by locating information, assessing it critically, communicating independent points of view logically and clearly (both orally and in writing), and substantiating opinions with evidence. In the course of such activities, they will gain experience of using information technology, working in groups, and organising their own time. The year abroad provides particularly good opportunities for developing increased cultural awareness and self-reliance.

Programme content

The profile which follows states which modules must be taken ('compulsory' modules) together with one or more lists of modules from which the student must make a selection ('optional' modules). Not all options will necessarily be available every year. Admission to options will be at the discretion of the Programme Director. Students must choose such additional modules as they wish, in consultation with their programme adviser, to make 120 credits in each Part. The number of credits for each module is shown after its title, and the credit requirement for progression in Italian and Management is indicated for each Part.

Part 1 in Italian includes the study of both language and an introduction to aspects of Italian culture. Students with A Level in Italian (or equivalent) must take a compulsory 20-credit language module and a compulsory 20-credit module on modern cultural themes. Students without an A Level (including complete beginners) take a compulsory 40-credit module which includes both language and cultural studies. In Part 2 students take one compulsory 20-credit language module (the level at this stage depends on their previous experience), and two optional modules from a range of broadly-based culture modules. During the Year Abroad the experience of living in Italy enables students to make great strides in their linguistic skills, particularly their oral and aural ones: by the end of this period the differences between former beginners and other students will have been eliminated. Students further broaden their knowledge of Italian culture, especially business culture, by pursuing courses at an Italian University; and they engage in independent study for their dissertation. Part 3 comprises two modules of further language study, one of which is specifically concerned with business language, and one optional module chosen from a range of specialised topics relating to many different aspects of Italian culture.

In Management, Part 1 includes a broad introduction to the theoretical basis of business and management. In Part 2, students continue to develop an understanding of the fundamentals of business and management. In Part 3, they have an opportunity to specialise in some areas of management and to apply management techniques and skills to business practice.

Progression requirements

To progress to Part 2 a student must:

- (i) obtain an average mark of 40% across all Part 1 modules;
- (ii) obtain at least 40% in Introductory Management and the Italian module(s);
- (iii) achieve not less than 30% in any module except that marks of less than 30% in a total of 20 credits may be condoned.

To progress from Part 2 to the Year Abroad a student must

- (i) obtain an average mark of 40% across all Part 2 modules;
- (ii) obtain at least 40% in all compulsory Part 2 modules;
- (iii) achieve not less than 30% in any module except that marks of less than 30% in a total of 20 credits may be condoned.

To proceed from the Year Abroad to Part 3 students must satisfy the examiners that they have successfully completed an approved programme of studies at a University in Italy and have handed in the work and assignments required by the programme.

Summary of teaching and assessment

In the Department of Italian, teaching is through seminars, lectures, essay tutorials and language classes. Over the programme as a whole, assessment will be conducted through a mixture of assessed essays and formal examination. The Credits from Italian University courses will derive from marks obtained in oral examinations set by the Italian university. The Oral in Italian and the Written and Oral Presentation will be examined at the beginning of Part 3.

In Management, the delivery of material varies among modules, especially in the proportions of time allocated to lectures, and to classes and seminars. All modules involve coursework, which takes a variety of forms. Final assessment normally involves a written examination, and may also incorporate coursework marks. The maximum proportion of a final module mark allocated to coursework is 20%, other than in special cases.

The conventions for classification are included in the Programme Handbook but you should note that weighting between Part 2 (and I level modules in the Year Abroad) and Part 3 (and H Level modules in the Year Abroad) for classification purposes is 33% and 67%.

Admission requirements

Entrants to this programme are normally required to have obtained:

either

280 points from 4 subjects ('A' or A/S levels) including 2 full A-levels

or

260 points from 3 subjects ('A' or A/S levels) including 2 full A-levels.

Equivalent international qualifications will be accepted.

Mature applicants: Applications from mature candidates are welcomed, and many have done notably well in the past. A mature applicant is more likely to receive an offer of a place if he or she has undertaken recent study, for example 2 or more A Levels or an Access course (70% or more usually required) but each case is assessed on its merits. Potential applicants should contact the Admissions Tutor well in advance to discuss individual circumstances.

International applicants: Applications from international candidates are also particularly welcomed. Advice on the acceptability of your qualifications may be sought, where necessary, from the Admissions Tutor.

Support for students and their learning

University supports for students and their learning falls into two categories. Learning support includes IT Services, which has several hundred computers and the University Library, which across its three sites holds over a million volumes, subscribes to around 4,000 current periodicals, has a range of electronic sources of information and houses the Student Access to Independent Learning (S@IL) computer-based teaching and learning facilities. There are language laboratory facilities both for those students studying on a language degree and for those taking modules offered by the Institution-wide Language Programme. Student guidance and welfare support is provided by Personal Tutors, the Careers Advisory Service, the University's Special Needs Advisor, Study Advisors, Hall Wardens and the Students' Union. Support for students in their studies is provided through the University's Personal Academic Record (PAR) Scheme, in which students meet their personal tutors regularly to review their progress. The School of Business and the Department of Italian provide handbooks that outline programme and module content. In addition to lecture and class time, each module lecturer has appointed office hours during which they may be consulted without prior appointment. The University Language Centre (ULC) contains a range of audio and audio-visual materials to promote self-study in languages, together with facilities for watching Italian television by satellite. The University Library is particularly well stocked with works relating to many different aspects of Italian culture, and the Faculty possesses a video suite to support cinema studies. The Italian Departmental Library contains a range of reference works which can be used by students and offers a congenial study space. The Department of Management has a resource room with reference books and computers for student use.

Career prospects

In recent years graduates from this programme have entered a variety of careers in both the private and public sectors. Examples include jobs in banking and finance, accountancy, sales and marketing, consultancies, retailing and other service industries, the Civil Service and universities. In the business world and in other areas the knowledge of Italian can be a distinct asset.

Graduates on this programme may apply for exemptions from relevant professional examinations of the Chartered Institute of Marketing, the Chartered Institute of Management Accountants and the Institute of Chartered Accountants of England and Wales. Students on this programme may become student members of the Institute of Management.

Opportunities for study abroad or for placements

The Department of Italian Studies participates in SOCRATES exchanges with the Universities of Padova, Roma III, Firenze, Siena, Pisa, Pavia, Genova, Napoli (Federico II), Bologna, Bergamo, and Venezia. Further information on these Universities is available on the Internet at <http://www.rdg.ac.uk/italian>

Students on this programme spend their third year at one of these Universities (usually Bergamo) or they may request a work placement in Italy. Students who wish to take advantage of this opportunity must obtain authorisation from the Department of Management by the June Board of Studies meeting in the second year of study. Applications should be handed in to the Director of Management Studies by the end of the Spring Term at the latest.

Students may also decide to take up a shorter work placement during the summer vacation at the end of the second year of study. In either of the above cases it is for the student to seek out an appropriate placement. Help may be provided by the Job Shop, located in the Student Advisory Service. The Employer requests are also put up on the departmental noticeboard.

Educational aims of the programme

The programme aims to:

- 1. equip students with a competence which comes as near as possible to that of an educated Italian person in the reception and production of spoken and written Italian, and particularly with the language of Italian business;

- 2. equip students with a sound body of knowledge of a range of aspects of Italian Studies chosen in accordance with their academic interests, and particularly in relation to contemporary society;
- 3. develop a familiarity with the theories and methods of the various disciplines covered and the ability to develop their own expertise and present their own arguments in these areas;
- 4. provide students with a broad knowledge base in business and management with the opportunity for specialism in key areas.;
- 5. develop a high level of analytical ability and the ability for independent thinking and reasoning;
- 6. develop the student's competence in applying management and business techniques and skills to business practice;
- 7. contribute to meeting the needs of industry for good business graduates both in the UK and abroad

Programme outcomes

The programme provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, skills, qualities and other attributes in the following areas:

A. Knowledge and understanding of:

- a. The Italian language (spoken and written);
- b. Selected aspects of Italian literature, history and culture;
- c. Methods of approach, analysis and interpretation associated with the various disciplines covered.
- d. The theoretical basis of management and key functional areas of business.
- e. Current developments in the practice and theory of business management.
- f. Fundamental concepts of business management relevant to the student becoming a manager in a UK business.
- g. The environmental and ethical context of business management in the UK.
- h. An understanding of the importance of international business and the drivers of change in business in this country and abroad, including management practice and business cultures in other countries.

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

- a. At Part 1, Italian is taught at three distinct levels: beginners, intermediate and advanced. Separate teaching is maintained throughout Part 2, but after the year in Italy all students follow the same courses. Teaching is always in small groups, with different classes being devoted to grammar, oral and aural skills, reading and writing skills and translation. Audio-visual resources are used as appropriate and the use of self-access facilities is encouraged. Regular non-assessed coursework is set, and considerable emphasis is based on individual study. The Year Abroad provides experience in the use of everyday Italian and the opportunity to follow University courses
- b, c. These areas are taught through a combination of usually informal lectures and seminars. Students are expected to undertake independent reading on the basis of bibliographies issued for each module, and prepare seminar papers and assessed essays. The dissertation provides an opportunity for the further development of independent research.
- d-h. Lectures; tutor-led tutorials; student and tutor-led seminars and problem-based learning.
- e. Guest lecturers from industry and directed self-study.
- g-h. Case studies

Assessment

Language work is assessed by oral and written examinations. The Italian University courses are assessed by oral examinations. Modules on literature and culture are assessed by a combination of coursework essays and examination. Management modules are assessed by coursework; written unseen examinations, seminar presentations: to provide a basic knowledge of methods and principles used in business management literature and cases and to promote the ability to appraise it critically.

Assessment

Assessments include a wide variety of methods such as tutor feedback, critiques of presentations, interactive discussion in groups, group feedback, peer assessment, and oral and written examinations. While skill f is not directly assessed, there are strict, clearly-defined penalties for lateness in handing in assessed work and for plagiarism.

Please note - This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if he/she takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information on the learning outcomes, content and teaching, learning and assessment methods of each module can be found in the module description and in the programme handbook. The University reserves the right to modify this specification in unforeseen circumstances, or where the process of academic development and feedback from students, quality assurance processes or external sources, such as professional bodies, requires a change to be made. In such circumstances, a revised specification will be issued.
