Summary of programme aims

The central aim of the programme is to enable students to gain an understanding of major areas of cinema and of theatre since the late nineteenth century, and become competent communicators in German and well-informed about German culture, history and current affairs. Students will experience some of the varied achievements of film-makers, writers and theatre practitioners, become familiar with a range of perspectives which can inform analysis of literary, film and drama texts, and gain a competence which comes as near as possible to that of an educated German person in the reception and production of spoken and written German.

Transferable skills

The University's Strategy for Teaching and Learning has identified a number of generic transferable skills which all students are expected to have developed by the end of their degree programme. In following this programme, students will have had the opportunity to develop their skills relating to career management, communication (both written and oral), information handling, problem-solving, team working and use of information technology.

In addition, on completion of this programme, students are expected to have developed a range of specific transferable skills including: critical analysis and coherent argument; the ability to formulate and evaluate their own arguments and those of others; researching and evaluating evidence; use of library resources; undertaking self-directed, independent work; developing projects through co-operation and dialogue; taking leadership and management roles; effective time management; cultural awareness.

Programme content

Each Part of the degree comprises 120 credits. Students must normally take a minimum of 40 credits and a maximum of 60 credits worth of modules in the Department of Film, Theatre & Television and a minimum of 40 credits and a maximum of 60 credits worth of modules in the German Department in Part 1. In Part 1 the remaining credits can be made up from modules available elsewhere in the University. In Parts 2 and 4 they must normally take a minimum of 60 credits in both the Film, Theatre & Television and the German Departments in each Part. In Part 3 (study abroad), each student will take 40 credits in the Department of Film, Theatre & Television (the dissertation) and 80 credits worth of modules, or equivalent modes of study, in German. In Parts 2 or 4, students may substitute a Faculty module of 20 credits for a module of either Department in consultation with their programme adviser.

Progression requirements

To proceed from Part 1 to Part 2, students must: a) have obtained a mark of 40% or above in all of their compulsory German modules and in each of the two compulsory modules in the Department of Film, Theatre & Television; b) must have achieved an average of 40% or above in the Part 1 examination as a whole; and c) have no module mark under 30%.

To proceed from Part 2 to the Year Abroad students must: a) obtain a mark of 40% or above in their compulsory German language module and in the compulsory modules in Department of Film, Theatre & Television, and an average of 40% in all other German modules; b) must obtain an overall average of 40% in the 120 credits at Part 2; and c) have no module mark under 30%. Marks of not less than 30% in a total of 20 credits may be condoned, provided that the candidate has pursued the course for the module(s) with reasonable diligence and has not been absent from the examination without cause

To proceed from the Year Abroad to Part 3, students must satisfy the examiners that they have completed an approved programme of study or employment in a German-speaking country and handed in the work and assignments required by the programme.

Summary of teaching and assessment

Teaching is through lectures, seminars and tutorials. Interaction in seminars is central to both parts of the programme, and weekly seminars, informed by lectures, are common to almost all modules in both Departments. Compulsory theatre visits and/or regular film screenings are integral to most modules in the Department of Film, Theatre & Television. In German, Language modules are taught in small groups; other modules typically involve a mixture of lectures and small-group seminars.

Assessment of critical modules in Parts 2 and 3 of Film & Theatre is mainly by coursework, which includes formal essays of various kinds (including extended essays) as well as other written assignments such as take away exam questions. In German, most modules are assessed by a mixture of coursework and formal examination; the Year Abroad module Scheine will be assessed on the basis of certificates gained at the German or Austrian university, and the Oral/Aural module will be examined at the beginning of Part 3.

The dissertation comprises a piece of independent research, directed through one-to-one tutorials, and assessed entirely through coursework.

The conventions for assessment and classification are included in the Programme Handbooks, but it should be noted that Part 2 modules and Year Abroad I-level modules will count for 33% of final assessment, and Year Abroad H-level modules and Part 3 modules will count for 67% of final assessment.

Admission Requirements

Entrants to the Joint Degree programme are normally required to have obtained:

A levels

Either

300 points from 3 A2s, to include 100 pts (grade B) in one of English Literature, Drama, Theatre Studies, Film Studies;

or

320 pts from 3 A2s + up to 2 AS, to include 100 pts (Grade B) in one of English Literature, Drama, Theatre Studies, Film Studies.

German A level is normally required, except for admission to the post-GCSE course. Students admitted with no knowledge of German must normally have an A-level or equivalent in a European foreign language.

AS

2 good AS grades are accepted as 1 supporting A level

Irish Leaving Certificate at least ABBBB (A in English Literature)

International Baccalaureate 31 points with 6 or 7 for Higher level English Literature

GCSE/O Language preferred: grade C or above.

All applications are considered on their individual merits. Mature candidates will be expected to have a B at A level English Literature, Theatre Studies, Drama Studies or Film Studies, or equivalent qualification. In other respects, generous concessions may be made to reflect the value of other qualifications and experience.

Admissions tutors: John Wiczorek (German), Teresa Murjas, John Gibbs and John Bull (Film, Theatre and Television)

Support for students and their learning

University support for students and their learning falls into two categories. Learning support includes IT Services, which has several hundred computers and the University Library, which across its three sites holds over a million volumes, subscribes to around 4,000 current periodicals, has a range of electronic sources of information and houses the Student Access to Independent Learning (S@IL) computer-based teaching and learning facilities. There are language laboratory facilities both for those students studying on a language degree and for those taking modules offered by the Institution-wide Language Programme.

Student guidance and welfare support is provided by Personal Tutors, School Senior Tutors, the Students' Union, the Medical Practice and the Student Services Centre. The Student Services Centre is housed in the Carrington Building and includes the Careers Advisory Service, the Disability Advisory Service, Accommodation Advisory Team, Student Financial Support, Counselling and Study Advisors. Student Services has a Helpdesk available for enquiries made in person or online (www.risisweb.reading.ac.uk), or by calling the central enquiry number on (0118) 378 5555. Students can get key information and guidance from the team of Helpdesk Advisers, or make an appointment with a specialist adviser; Student Services also offer drop-in sessions on everything from accommodation to finance. The Carrington Building is open between 8:30 and 17:30 Monday to Thursday (17:00 Friday and during vacation periods). Further information can be found in the Student Diary (given to students at enrolment) or on the Student website (www.reading.ac.uk/student).

Students receive Handbooks from both Departments, which gives details of the Programme, guidance on study skills such as note-taking and essay writing, and information about staff, facilities, and sources of specialized help within the University, such as the Study Skills Advisor and the Counselling Service. The Programme is designed to give students extensive teaching support in Part 1 leading to more independent work in Part 3. Academic feedback and guidance is given through regular seminars and language-classes (German) and detailed written comments (Film & Theatre), and academic and personal support is provided through the personal tutor system and PAR. A series of discussions, talks and academic courses is provided to prepare students for the year abroad, and dissertation workshops prepare students for the Year Abroad dissertation, which is individually supervised. A video-viewing suite is available within the Faculty (on the Whiteknights campus). The Department of Film, Theatre & Television has an extensive collection of films and television programmes, to which students may have access, and a range of viewing facilities. The Library, which has buildings on both the Whiteknights and Bulmershe campuses, has an extensive collection of printed materials as well as electronic databases, such as the OED, the MLA Bibliography, and the DNB on CD ROM, and such on-line resources as JSTOR and First Search. Specialist subject librarians are available to give students advice and guidance to library resources.

Career prospects

Since Film & Theatre and German is not a vocational programme, career possibilities are very wide ranging. Graduates find that the specific as well as the transferable skills developed by the programme enable them to enter many fields of work including education, banking, commerce and industry, arts administration, advertising, accountancy, personnel, the civil service, local government and the performance/media industries. Students may also go on to post-graduate study in both subject areas at MA and PhD levels, both at Reading and elsewhere. Increasing numbers of students find positions in the business world, including the travel industry, where their knowledge of German can be a distinct asset.

Opportunities for study abroad

Subject to arrangements made in exceptional cases only, all students on this programme spend a year abroad either at a German or Austrian university with which the University of Reading has an agreement under the Lifelong Learning Programme (LLP) and Erasmus University Charter, or as an assistant teacher, or on a work placement. Full details of potential destinations can be found on the Erasmus & Study Abroad website.

Educational aims of the programme.

The programme in Film & Theatre and German Studies seeks to develop students' intellectual potential, enabling them to progress to postgraduate study or a wide range of careers, while also promoting a lifelong love of learning.

The central aim of the Film & Theatre Combined Subject programme is to enable students to gain a confident grasp of critical methods appropriate to the study of Film & Theatre and an understanding of major areas of cinema and of theatre since the late nineteenth century. Students will experience some of the varied achievements of film-makers, writers and theatre practitioners and become familiar with a range of perspectives which can inform analysis of film and drama texts. The emphasis is on the close study of plays and films and on critical debates and competing theories that have influenced discussion of theatre and cinema.

The programme in German Studies adopts a multi-disciplinary approach and aims to produce graduates who are competent communicators in German and are well-informed about German culture, history and current affairs. The programme therefore aims to equip students with: a competence which comes as near as possible to that of an educated German person in the reception and production of spoken and written German; a sound body of knowledge within the field of German Studies that is suited to their interests; familiarity with the theories and methods of the various disciplines covered and the ability to develop their own expertise and develop and present their arguments in these areas.
