Summary of programme aims

The course will enable teachers and other educationalists to deepen their understanding of English and Language in Education and is designed to help participants reflect on and improve existing educational practices. This aim is achieved by exploring a range of theoretical perspectives and by subjecting them to critical scrutiny drawing where appropriate on the practical knowledge of participants. Graduates of the course will offer their institutions a greatly developed range of insights and skills; they will be more effective practitioners able to assist colleagues in improving their practice; this combination will assist in raising standards of teaching and learning.

Transferable skills

Students will develop the following transferable skills:-

Ability to use library and other academic resources

Writing skills: writing of papers/essays/professional reports, abstraction of others' work from written, oral and audio-visual material, reviewing work and practice of peers.

Ability to make oral presentations.

Ability to critique existing policies and practices in a professional field

Ability to undertake independent or collaborative research.

Programme content

The programme provides opportunities for students to select from a wide range of modules. Optional modules will vary from year to year and students will receive information about these at the start of the programme. The programme places strong emphasis on the development of independent research skills by all students. Students must complete their dissertation on an appropriate topic. All students are registered for Route A and may transfer to Route B, with the approval of the programme leader.

The modules below are specific to this programme, however, students can select from the full menu of options; these may vary from year to year and students will receive information about these at the start of the programme.

On Route A, students take six taught modules (120 credits) followed by a 15,000 word dissertation (EDM019). For Route A at least 3 modules must be taken from the list below. For part-time students the taught modules must be completed within 48 months and the dissertation must be submitted within 36 months of completing the taught modules. The dissertation registration period is 12 months (part-time). Full-time students complete the programme in 12 months.

On Route B, students take four taught modules (80 credits) followed by the longer 25,000-30,000 more research based dissertation (EDM020). For Route B at least 2 modules must be taken from the list below. For part-time students the taught modules must be completed within 36 months and the dissertation must be submitted within 48 months of completing the taught modules. The dissertation registration period is 24 months (part-time). Full-time students complete the programme in 12 months.

Part-time/Modular arrangements

The Postgraduate Diploma may be taken part-time over 48 months (please see Programme Content section for further details of time-scales). The dissertation will normally be the last piece of work submitted for assessment. Part-time students may register for the dissertation at the beginning of the Autumn, Spring or Summer Terms. Modules must be assessed in the year they are studied.

Progression requirements

Students may exit after three modules with a Postgraduate Certificate or with a Postgraduate Diploma after six. Students on Route A must take at least three modules from the list and up to three from the available options; they must complete a dissertation in an appropriate area. Students on Route B are therefore unable to qualify for the Postgraduate Diploma [120 taught credits].

Summary of teaching and assessment

Teaching is by a variety of methods, including lectures, seminars, workshops, individual feedback on written work and individual supervisions. The programme provides opportunities for students to select a wide range of modules from across the programme. Each module will cover key research and developments in the relevant aspect of the field. Each module will also draw on international comparisons where appropriate. 'English' is thus treated literally as a named key subject in a number of countries but also as a ‘mother tongue’ subject where appropriate. Students must undertake at least one assignment that involves classroom [or equivalent] based research.

The University’s taught postgraduate marks classification is as follows:

Mark	Interpretation
70 – 100%	Distinction
60 – 69%	Merit
50 – 59%	Good standard (Pass)
Failing categories:
40 – 49%	Work below threshold standard
0 – 39%	Unsatisfactory Work

For Masters Degrees in Education (180 credits)

To pass the Masters students must gain an average mark of 50 or more overall including a mark of 50 or more for the dissertation. In addition the total credit value of all modules marked below 40 must not exceed 30 credits and for all modules marked below 50 must not exceed 55 credits.*

Students who gain an average mark of 70 or more overall including a mark of 60 or more for the dissertation and have no mark below 40 will be eligible for a Distinction. Those gaining an average mark of 60 or more overall including a mark of 50 or more for the dissertation and have no mark below 40 will be awarded eligible for a Merit.

For PG Diplomas (120 credits)

To pass the Postgraduate Diploma students must gain an average mark of 50 or more. In addition the total credit value of all modules marked below 40 must not exceed 30 credits and for all modules marked below 50 must not exceed 55 credits. *

Students who gain an average mark of 70 or more and have no mark below 40 will be eligible for the award of a Distinction. Those gaining an average mark of 60 or more and have no mark below 40 will be awarded eligible for a Merit.

For PG Certificates (60 credits)

To pass the Postgraduate Certificate students must gain an average mark of 50 or more and have no mark below 40.

* The provision to permit a candidate to be passed overall with a profile containing marks below 40 is made subject to the condition that there is evidence that the candidate applied his or herself to the work of those modules with reasonable diligence and has not been absent from the examination without reasonable cause.

Admission requirements

Entrants to this programme are normally required to have obtained an Honours degree and obtained a pass at second class or above or its equivalent. However all applicants will be considered and practical experience may be taken into account where appropriate. Normally applicants will have either direct experience of teaching and learning within the field of English and Language in Education or will be able to demonstrate a clear commitment to working in the field of education.

Support for students and their learning

University support for students and their learning falls into two categories. Learning support includes IT Services, which has several hundred computers and the University Library, which across its three sites holds over a million volumes, subscribes to around 4,000 current periodicals, has a range of electronic sources of information and houses the Student Access to Independent Learning (S@IL) computer-based teaching and learning facilities. There are language laboratory facilities both for those students studying on a language degree and for those taking modules offered by the Institution-wide Language Programme.

Student guidance and welfare support is provided by Personal Tutors, School Senior Tutors, the Students' Union, the Medical Practice and the Student Services Centre. The Student Services Centre is housed in the Carrington Building and includes the Careers Advisory Service, the Disability Advisory Service, Accommodation Advisory Team, Student Financial Support, Counselling and Study Advisors. Student Services has a Helpdesk available for enquiries made in person or online (www.risisweb.reading.ac.uk), or by calling the central enquiry number on (0118) 378 5555. Students can get key information and guidance from the team of Helpdesk Advisers, or make an appointment with a specialist adviser; Student Services also offer drop-in sessions on everything from accommodation to finance. The Carrington Building is open between 8:30 and 17:30 Monday to Thursday (17:00 Friday and during vacation periods). Further information can be found in the Student Diary (given to students at enrolment) or on the Student website (www.reading.ac.uk/student).

The Bulmershe Campus contains its own Library with an excellent stock of education books and journals and its own IT facilities. A comprehensive handbook is available for the course. Through its Partnerships the Institute has active relationships with a network of over 300 schools and 10 Local Education Authorities.

Career prospects

The course will greatly enhance the career prospects of any participants engaged in teaching English and/or Language at whatever level and is specifically designed to support those keen to become leaders in the field of education. It also offers an excellent programme for second language teachers, particularly of English as a second Language. It also provides an excellent introduction to the critique of education necessary for work at Local Education Authority level and above.

Educational aims of the programme

Students are required to demonstrate more advanced understandings than at first degree level with specific emphasis on the educational issues related to English and Language teaching and learning. English and Language is essentially a very broad field within education and the range of modules reflects this breadth. In order for students to achieve the appropriate depth at Masters level they will be encouraged to select a set of modules that builds on their existing knowledge. The course is designed to be as flexible as possible in order to attract working professionals. Participants will have excellent opportunities to develop specific areas of expertise by drawing on the extensive range of Institute modular Masters provision. The programme brings together participants from different age phases and from different educational cultures and this diversity is drawn on to enrich the educational experience of all students. Students must negotiate at least one assignment that involves classroom based [or equivalent] research.
