

MRes in International Relations (Diplomacy)

For students entering in 2010

Awarding Institution:	University of Reading
Teaching Institution:	University of Reading
Faculty:	Social Sciences
Programme length:	12 months
Date of specification:	2010
Programme Director:	Professor Beatrice Heuser
Board of Studies:	GIPIS
Accreditation:	University of Reading

Summary of programme aims

To introduce students to theoretical and practical approaches to the study of international diplomacy through the study of a core module in Contemporary Diplomacy and to encourage interdisciplinary scholarship. In particular this degree programme encourages the ability to delineate and evaluate issues, select relevant materials and produce arguments encompassing policy, existing practice and knowledge at an advanced level in diplomacy and the international relations of States. It seeks also to develop those practical, generic and personal transferable skills necessary to conduct independent research.

Transferable skills

This module will enhance students' capacity for independent study by requiring them to prepare for weekly discussions using recommended bibliographic materials (print and electronic). It will help them to develop further their IT skills by using a variety of internet sites and public access databases in the preparation of assignments. It will enhance their presentational skills by requiring them to make oral presentations to groups of fellow students. It will strengthen their written communication skills through the writing of essays and a dissertation. The dissertation component will strengthen students' research skills and their ability to structure complex subject material as well as evaluate and present their own thinking on a subject in a coherent and precise manner.

Programme content

The MRes in International Relations (Diplomacy) consists of 180 credits; a taught element (120 credits) and a dissertation (60 credits). There are four compulsory core modules 'International Relations', 'Diplomacy', 'Research Training Philosophical Issues' and 'Research Training Data Collection & Analysis', totalling 120 credits. These run for two terms (Autumn and Spring). Students must also write a dissertation (60 credits), which is planned in consultation with a supervisor and submitted for assessment in September.

Mod Code	Module Title	Credits	Level
Compulsory Modules
PIM09	International Relations	30	7
PIM21	Contemporary Diplomacy	30	7
PIM12	Dissertation	60	7
PIM44	Research Training Philosophical Issues	30	7
PIM45	Research Training Data Collection & Analysis	30	7

Part-time/Modular arrangements

The programme can be taken part-time over two years (or exceptionally on a flexible basis over a maximum of 6 years). In the first year of study, a student will be required to complete the two modules 'International Relations' and 'Research Training Philosophical Issues'. The other modules and dissertation will be completed in the second year of study. The programme may not normally be extended beyond two years.

Progression requirements

None

Summary of teaching and assessment

The programme is taught by a mixture of seminars with student presentations and structured discussion, individual tutorials (especially where the dissertation is involved), and a small number of lectures.

All modules, except for the Dissertation, are assessed by course work and examination. Failed coursework has to be re-submitted at the latest by 1st September the same year. If the examination is failed it has to be re-sat in September the same year. A failed dissertation has to be re-submitted within 12 months. The pass mark for all modules is 50 per cent.

The University's taught postgraduate marks classification is as follows:

Mark	Interpretation
70 – 100%	Distinction
60 – 69%	Merit
50 – 59%	Good standard (Pass)
Failing categories:
40 – 49%	Work below threshold standard
0 – 39%	Unsatisfactory Work

For Masters Degrees

To pass the MRes students must gain an average mark of 50 or more overall and have no mark below 40 in any of their modules. In addition the total credit value of all modules marked below 40 must not exceed 30 credits and for all modules marked below 50 must be less than 60 credits.

Students who gain an average mark of 70 or more overall including a mark of 70 or more for the dissertation and have no mark below 40 will be eligible for a Distinction. Those gaining an average mark of 60 or more overall including a mark of 60 or more for the dissertation and have no mark below 40 will be awarded eligible for a Merit.

For PG Diplomas

To pass the Postgraduate Diploma students must gain an average mark of 50 or more and have no mark below 40 in any of their modules. In addition the total credit value of all modules marked below 40 must not exceed 30 credits and for all modules marked below 50 must be less than 60 credits.

Students who gain an average mark of 70 or more and have no mark below 40 will be eligible for the award of a Distinction. Those gaining an average mark of 60 or more and have no mark below 40 will be awarded eligible for a Merit.

For PG Certificates

To pass the Postgraduate Certificate students must gain an average mark of 50 or more and have no mark below 40 in any of their modules. In addition the total credit value of all modules marked below 40 must not exceed 10 credits.

Admission requirements

Entrants to this programme are normally required to have obtained a first degree of 2.1 Honours degree standard or its equivalent and, for students whose first language is not English, an IELTS score of at least 6.5.

Admissions Tutor: Dr P.J Giddings.

Support for students and their learning

University support for students and their learning falls into two categories. Learning support includes IT Services, which has several hundred computers, and the University Library, which across its three sites holds over a million volumes, subscribes to around 4,000 current periodicals, has a range of electronic sources of information and houses the Student Access to Independent Learning (S@il) computer-based teaching and learning facilities. There are language laboratory facilities both for those students studying on a language degree and for those taking modules offered by the Institution-wide Language Programme.

Student guidance and welfare support is provided by Personal Tutors, School Senior Tutors, the Students' Union, the Medical Practice and the Student Services Directorate. The Student Services Directorate is housed in the Carrington Building and includes the Careers Advisory Service, the Disability Advisory Service, Accommodation Advisory Team, Student Financial Support, Counselling and Study Advisors. Student Services has a Helpdesk available for enquiries made in person or online (www.risisweb.reading.ac.uk), or by calling the central enquiry number on (0118) 378 5555. Students can get key information and guidance from the team of Helpdesk Advisers, or make an appointment with a specialist adviser; Student Services also offer drop-in sessions on everything from accommodation to finance. The Carrington Building is open between 8:30 and 17:30 Monday to Thursday (17:00 Friday and during vacation periods). Further information can be found in the Student website (www.reading.ac.uk/student).

GIPIIS has its own handbook as well as a full induction programme at the beginning of the university year. Student progress is monitored via termly progress reports written by the Module Convenor and provided to the Director of Studies. Through its formative essays scheme GIPIIS also gives individual help to students whose early assignments have revealed the need for remedial effort to enhance their writing skills.

Career prospects

Students with a postgraduate degree in International Relations may be able to pursue careers in a wide range of areas in government, business, research, journalism, publishing, teaching, and the work of non-governmental organizations. A number of students also go on to further post-graduate studies at the PhD level.

Opportunities for study abroad or for placements

The Graduate Institute has exchange arrangements with Charles University, Prague, and with the Université Libre de Bruxelles. Each year a weeklong study trip to Brussels is organised to visit EU and other governmental and non-governmental institutions.

Educational aims of the programme

Upon completion of the MRes programme, students will have broadened and strengthened their knowledge and understanding of International Relations and Diplomacy in a systematic way. They will be aware of the main epistemological and theoretical issues relevant to the academic study of International Relations and Diplomacy, and of current debates within the discipline. They will have a general familiarisation with the full range of quantitative and qualitative research skills relevant to the study of International Relations and Diplomacy and will have practical knowledge of specific methods and research techniques. They will have engaged in a sustained piece of independent and critical research within the context of close and supportive supervision. They will also have acquired non-subject specific research skills and generic skills and knowledge appropriate to a research and other careers.

Programme Outcomes

Knowledge and Understanding

A. Knowledge and understanding of:

- (a) Key issues in diplomacy including issues of politics, law and economics and the process of interdisciplinary analysis of international issues;
- (b) A range of research methodologies sufficient to formulate appropriate and relevant research questions and conduct independent research in diplomatic methodologies and techniques;
- (c) A select range of options to broaden understanding of the operation of diplomatic relations at an advanced level;
- (d) research methods

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

Students will be taught by means of seminars with students presentations and structured discussion, individual tutorials, and a limited number of lectures. In the Optional modules, students will gain specialised knowledge of different aspects of International Relations, including international politics, strategic studies, international political economy, international law and international organisations. In the Research Methods modules, students will become familiar with the full range of quantitative and qualitative research skills and underlying issues, train in a range of methods of data collection and analysis, and acquire an understanding of the main epistemological and theoretical issues in the social sciences. In the Dissertation module, students will, under the guidance of dissertation supervisor, apply appropriate methods of analysis to a specific topic, taking increasing responsibility for their own learning.

Assessment

Students' knowledge is tested through a combination of coursework, examinations and a dissertation.

Skills and other attributes

B. Intellectual skills – able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none">(a) analyse and interpret patterns and processes of world politics in a theoretically aware manner;(b) identify and employ relevant scholarly literature in support of one's own research;(c) demonstrate a sound understanding of research methods and techniques appropriate to the study of International Relations;(d) structure complex arguments;(e) criticise and defend intellectual positions in a well reasoned and empirically substantiated fashion;(f) express oneself orally and in writing in a cogent and effective manner.	Teaching/learning methods and strategies These intellectual skills will be taught in all modules: Core, Option, Dissertation and Research Methods. These skills will be taught by means of seminars with student presentations and structured discussions, some individual tutorials, essay writing, workshops and the writing of a dissertation. Additional training will be available to students through study visits to the library and other research resources, and through the support of Study Advisors. Assessment All these intellectual skills are assessed throughout the programme in termly essays, exams and the dissertation.
C. Practical skills – able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none">a) cull relevant material from select bibliographies for the preparation of oral presentations and written assignments;b) use library and electronic resources, including databases and websites, for the purpose of conducting research;c) budget one's time satisfactorily for the completion of weekly assignments, exam preparation and the writing of a dissertation;d) memorise and recall key concepts, theories and historical data in support of one's work.e) Discover and use political, legal and/or economics and contextual materials from a variety of sources	Teaching/learning methods and strategies The Graduate Institute's induction day includes an introduction to the use of the University Library and other relevant resources. Students learn through independent study, availing themselves when necessary of guidance from the Course Convenor and Study Skills Advisors. All modules seek to develop powers of critical analysis and judgement. Assessment The practical skills developed during the course form an integral part of knowledge and intellectual skill acquisition and are assessed throughout the programme in coursework, exams and the writing of the dissertation.

D. Transferable skills – able to:

- a) engage in independent study;
- b) evaluate evidence using reasoned arguments;
- c) structure complex arguments;
- d) articulate one's own thoughts in a coherent fashion;
- e) give oral presentations;
- f) write effectively;
- g) manage one's time efficiently;
- h) use IT (e.g., internet sites and electronic databases) and other scholarly resources.

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

Diplomacy is a subject of considerable complexity; some material is difficult and not all of it is of over-powering interest – a student must work hard to engage with such material. A student will be required regularly to participate in class discussions and make presentations. He or she will be required to engage with a considerable amount of academic and other literature and to assess and evaluate such literature critically and in the context of presenting advanced arguments both orally and in writing.

Assessment

The transferable skills developed during the course form an integral part of knowledge and intellectual skill acquisition and are assessed throughout the programme in coursework, exams and the writing of the dissertation.

Please note - This specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if he/she takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information on the learning outcomes, content and teaching, learning and assessment methods of each module can be found in the module description and in the programme handbook. The University reserves the right to modify this specification in unforeseen circumstances, or where the process of academic development and feedback from students, quality assurance processes or external sources, such as professional bodies, requires a change to be made. In such circumstances, a revised specification will be issued.