Summary of programme aims

This programme aims to introduce students to theoretical and practical approaches to the study of the related topics of international relations and strategic studies. The MRes in International Relations (Strategic Studies) provides a thorough analysis of contemporary strategic issues and the challenges of defence planning in the modern international world. It seeks also to develop those practical, generic and personal transferable skills necessary to conduct independent research.

Transferable skills

Amongst a range of transferable skills, this programme will provide students with those necessary for employment where there is a requirement for the exercise of initiative and personal responsibility, decision making in complex and unpredictable situations, and the independent learning ability required for continuing professional development. In addition, the programme will also provide the students with an informed and critical approach to using primary and secondary sources, and an enhanced confidence in, and effectiveness of, oral and written communication.

Programme content

The MRes in International Relations (Strategic Studies) consists of 180 credits; a taught element (120 credits) and a dissertation (60 credits). There are five compulsory modules, which run for two terms (Autumn and Spring). Students must also write a dissertation which is planned in consultation with a supervisor and submitted in September.

Support for students and their learning

University support for students and their learning falls into two categories. Learning support is provided by a wide array of services across the University, including: the University Library, the Careers, Placement and Experience Centre (CPEC), In-session English Support Programme, the Study Advice and Mathematics Support Centre teams, IT Services and the Student Access to Independent Learning (S@il) computer-based teaching and learning facilities. There are language laboratory facilities both for those students studying on a language degree and for those taking modules offered by the Institution-wide Language Programme. Student guidance and welfare support is provided by Personal Tutors, School Senior Tutors, the Students' Union, the Medical Practice and advisers in the Student Services Centre. The Student Services Centre is housed in the Carrington Building and offers advice on accommodation, careers, disability, finance, and wellbeing, academic issues (eg problems with module selection) and exam related queries. Students can get key information and guidance from the team of Helpdesk Advisers, or make an appointment with a specialist adviser; Student Services also offer drop-in sessions and runs workshops and seminars on a range of topics.
