Programme information and content

This programme pathway examines the strategic choices multinational enterprises (MNEs) need to make to compete in an increasingly global economy, while simultaneously paying close attention to the development and policy challenges that the actions of multinational firms create in an interdependent world, both from a developing and developed country perspective. This requires a holistic view of the international business environment, in terms of the competitive and investment milieu, which inturn is determined by the policies and regulations established by governments and supra-national institutions. The programme introduces conceptual frameworks and practical methodologies that make sense of the interaction between firm strategies, economic and development policies and changing environments in a rapidly globalising world.

The programme requires a substantial amount of independent reading, research and study and students are expected to take personal responsibility and show initiative in developing their knowledge and understanding of the field of study. They will also need to enhance their skills in communications (both written and oral), information handling, and analysis of context and cases in development. Students will work under pressure of time throughout the programme and will learn to set priorities and manage their time in order to meet strict deadlines. Career planning will be an integral part of the programme, both in the choice of programme and in its elective components. Graduates will have developed an international and multicultural perspective on business and will have also developed the managerial, professional and ethical skills required to become an effective global citizen in an international organisation. Graduates will therefore demonstrate a range of cognitive, personal and intellectual skills and techniques specific to International Business. They should be aware of cultural differences and the different approaches of a range of international students and be able to make adaptations to their natural styles to overcome difficulties. They will therefore need to develop and demonstrate relevant personal and interpersonal skills.

Part-time or flexible modular arrangements

This programme is only available for full time study.

Additional costs of the programme

There are no textbooks which you must buy and students are encouraged to discuss the purchase of textbooks or other resources with the module convenor before purchasing. Some books may be available second-hand, which will reduce costs.

A range of resources to support your curriculum, including textbooks, electronic resources and computer facilities, are available through the Central Library and the Business School Academic Resource Centre.

Printing and photocopying facilities are available on campus at a cost per A4 page of £0.05 (black and white) and £0.30 (colour). Essential costs in this area will be low as most coursework is submitted electronically. Costs are indicative and may vary according to optional modules chosen and are subject to inflation and other price fluctuations.

In the Summer Term students complete an International Applied Challenge at a foreign study visit locationeither virtually or via direct travel (following institutional decision). In the later case, traveland accommodation (including kitchenette and breakfast) costs are paid by the School. Each student is required to cover their personal cost for subsistence; we estimate costs to be no more than £40 per day x 12 days.

Optional modules

Students must choose 40 credits of option modules so as to complete a total of 180 credits.

A complete list of option modules is available from the Programme Director, and a list of current options can be found in the relevant Programme Handbook. There is no guarantee that in any one year all modules will be available. New option modules may also be added.

Placement opportunities

Study abroad opportunities

The international and practical/applied dimensions of this programme are important, and all students will have the opportunity to undertake some portion of their studies learning practical, consultancy and wider skills and learn to evaluate and synthetically understand an international context in the form of either a virtual or an international study visit. All students have the opportunity to study abroad through completion of either the real+virtual or the virtual components. Also, virtual alternatives will be offered where travel is not possible.

Teaching and learning delivery

Teaching is organised in modules. The delivery of material varies among the modules, especially in the proportion of time allocated to lectures, classes and seminars.

Total study hours for your programme will be 1800 hours. The contact hours for your programme will depend upon your module combination; an average for a typical set of modules on this programme is 290 hours. In addition to your scheduled contact hours, you will be expected to undertake guided independent study. Information about module contact hours and the amount of independent study which a student is normally expected to undertake for a module is indicated in the relevant module description.

Accreditation details

All Henley Business School programmes are accredited by the EFMD Quality Improvement System and the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB)

Assessment

All modules involve coursework, which takes a variety of forms reflecting the aims of the module. Final assessment of the modules usually involves a two hour examination and coursework. A project supervisor is appointed for each student.

Assessment of taught modules will take place by May/June. Students will have the opportunity to re-sit any failed modules in late August or early September. The business project must be submitted in the first half of September.

Students wishing to proceed to a higher degree by research should normally have obtained an average of at least 60% across all modules, and at least 60% in the Capstone modules (MMM156 and MMM154). These two are modules of special significance in the degree.
