Programme information and content

The aims of the program are to

- 1.train a critical pool of professionals so as to develop their knowledge of the key issues in the emerging oil and gas industry;
- 2.increase the analytical and research skills of students in terms of their ability to collect and analyse information relating to legal, economic and environmental problems related to the oil and gas industry;
- 3.enable students to tackle complicated legal problems and provide solutions
- 4.expose students to a multidisciplinary learning environment;
- 5.help students develop an array of both analytical and critical skills, through independent study and working with others;
- 6.provide students with the knowledge and skills for professional life and further academic study.

Module information

The programme comprises of 180 credits, allocated across a range of compulsory and optional modules. Compulsory modules are listed.

Compulsory modules

Students on the MSc Oil and Gas Programme:

Can take optional taught modules totalling 180 credits from the list of optional modules provided by the School of Law, or from an approved list of modules from across the University

Or

Choose to allocate 40 credits to a Project, in which case the following modules will be compulsory:

Module Code	Title	Credits	Level
LWMTPR	Project	40	7
LWMTPS	Project Skills	10	7

The project must be written on a topic that has a meaningful relationship to issues of Oil and Gas law.

The remaining credits will be taken from the list of optional modules from the School of Law or from an approved list of modules from across the University.

Full-time January entrants

Please note that if choosing to allocate 40 credits to a project, the project submission date falls in early September, whereas you will study some of your taught modules in the (subsequent) Autumn term. You may wish to bear that in mind when choosing a project topic.

Part-time or flexible modular arrangements

The MSc Oil and Gas programme can be taken part-time over two years. In the first year of study, a student will normally be required to complete 20 credits from each of the School of Law module list and the School of Agriculture, Policy and Development module list and further optional modules totalling not less than 20 credits and not more than 50 credits. In the second year of study a student will normally be required to complete any remaining modules. For MSc Oil and Gas students who choose to write a Project, this includes the Project-related modules LWMTPS Project Skills, and LWMTPR Project. The programme may not be completed over more than two years.

Additional costs of the programme

The readings required for each module will be made available in electronic form and/or in hard copy in the library. Students who wish to purchase their own copies of relevant books and materials must do so at their own expense.

Optional modules

The optional modules available can vary from year to year. An indicative list of the range of optional modules for your Programme is set out in the Further Programme Information. Details of any additional costs associated with the optional modules, will be made available to you prior to the beginning of the programme. Entry to optional modules will be at the discretion of the University and subject to availability. Although the University tries to ensure you are able to take the optional modules in which you have expressed interest this cannot be guaranteed.

Placement opportunities

From time to time opportunities for internship and similar placements may arise and the School facilitates a number of such opportunities.
