Programme information and content

The programme aims to provide a thorough postgraduate education in the field of management for students who are not expected to have prior managerial work experience. The programme is distinctive in its international flavour, with strong emphasis on international business themes relevant for analysing the dynamic global business challenges of the 21st century. Students will also have the opportunity deepen their global perspective, by studying in different international learning environments during the course of the programme.

The programme is flexible in its design to accommodate students with different academic backgrounds and ambitions. At its core, the programme provides a critical insight into fundamental features of contemporary management practice that can be accessed by students with a good first degree in any subject area. Students wishing to focus their studies in more specific areas of management, are able to select from a range of specialist pathways that build on the internationally recognised research strengths of Henley Business School.

The programme requires a substantial amount of independent reading, research and study, and students are expected to take personal responsibility and show initiative in developing their knowledge and understanding of the field of study. In following this programme students will also have the opportunity to enhance and develop their skills relating to communication (oral and written), presentations, information handling, problem solving, team-working, and the use of information technology. Students will learn to work independently and collaboratively, under time pressures, and will learn to set priorities and manage their time in order to meet strict deadlines. The programme requires students to work in culturally diverse teams, and to apply their learning in different international contexts. Graduates will therefore demonstrate a range of cognitive, personal and intellectual skills and techniques specific to management appropriate for both businesses and broader organisations in the economy.

Additional costs of the programme

There are no textbooks which you must buy and students are encouraged to discuss the purchase of textbooks or other resources with the module convenor before purchasing. Some books may be available second-hand, which will reduce costs.

A range of resources to support your curriculum, including textbooks, electronic resources and computer facilities, are available through the Central Library and the Business School Academic Resource Centre.

Printing and photocopying facilities are available on campus at a cost per A4 page of £0.05 (black and white) and £0.30 (colour). Essential costs in this area will be low as most coursework is submitted electronically. Costs are indicative and may vary according to optional modules chosen and are subject to inflation and other price fluctuations.

In the Summer Term students complete an International Study Challenge at a foreign study visit location either virtually or via direct travel (following institutional decision). In the later case, travel and accommodation (including kitchenette and breakfast) costs are paid by the School. Each student is required to cover their personal cost for subsistence; we estimate costs to be no more than £40 per day x 12 days.

Optional modules

Students must choose 70 credits of option modules from Henley Business School so as to complete a total of 180 credits.

A complete list of option modules is available from the Programme Director, and a list of current options can be found in the relevant Programme Handbook. There is no guarantee that in any one year all modules will be available. New option modules may also be added.

Placement opportunities

Study abroad opportunities

The international and practical/applied dimensions of this programme are important, and all students will have the opportunity to undertake some portion of their studies learning practical, consultancy and wider skills and learn to evaluate and synthetically understand an international context outside the UK in the form of either a virtual or an international study visit.

All students have the opportunity to study abroad through completion of either the real+virtual or the virtual components. Also, virtual alternatives will be offered where travel is not possible.

Teaching and learning delivery

Teaching is organised in modules. The delivery of material varies among the modules, especially in the proportion of time allocated to lectures, classes and seminars.

Total study hours for your programme will be 1800 hours. The contact hours for your programme will depend upon your module combination; an average for a typical set of modules on this programme is 290 hours. In addition to your scheduled contact hours, you will be expected to undertake guided independent study. Information about module contact hours and the amount of independent study which a student is normally expected to undertake for a module is indicated in the relevant module description.

Accreditation details

All Henley Business School programmes are accredited by the EFMD Quality Improvement System and the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB)

Assessment

All modules involve coursework, which takes a variety of forms reflecting the aims of the module. Final assessment of most modules usually involves a two hour examination and coursework. A project supervisor is appointed for each student.

Assessment of taught modules will take place by May/June. Students will have the opportunity to re-sit any failed modules in late August or early September. The business project must be submitted in the first half of September.

Students wishing to proceed to a higher degree by research should normally have obtained an average of at least 60% across all modules, and at least 60% in the Capstone modules (MMM154 and MMM155). These two are modules of special significance in the degree.
