Programme information and content

The aim of the programme is to prepare students to work in the fields of accountancy, consulting, or banking, or to undertake academic research in these fields. It enables students to engage in and contribute meaningfully to accounting and financial decision-making in a digital business environment. Its adaptable design is appropriate for students from a variety of disciplines who do not have a prior study background in accounting. Students will be able to learn how accounting and financial information is used for decision-making purposes, how data analytics is utilised in the process, and how the results of those decisions are communicated and evaluated in businesses. The programme equips students not only with the necessary theoretical foundations of accounting, financial management, and digital business but also with a set of practical skills and expertise sought after by employers in the wide accounting and financial services industry in the fast-developing digital business world.

Programme Learning Outcomes

-MSc Accounting, Financial Management & Digital Business (full-time)

During the course of the Programme, you will have the opportunity to develop a range of skills, knowledge and attributes (known as learning outcomes) For this programme, these are:

Learning outcomes
1	Critically evaluate and interpret the implications of digitalisation and data analytics on business management and decision-making, applying an integrated approach to select suitable strategies.
2	Critically discuss and apply accounting and financial management frameworks to navigate the sphere of big data and digital business, emphasizing solution design and implementation.
3	Adopt an analytical and reflective approach to critically evaluate and discuss accounting and financial management matters, integrating knowledge and insights for effective problem-solving.
4	Select and apply specialised skills in accounting, financial management, and data analytics to support strategic decision-making and problem-solving in business management within the digital landscape.
5	Communicate complex information effectively in both oral and written format for a variety of purposes and audiences including specialist and non-specialist accounting and finance professionals.
6	Work collaboratively with others to address complex problems in the sphere of accounting and finance to create evidence based, credible and innovative solutions.
7	Take personal responsibility for self-directed learning and demonstrate flexibility and readiness to change within the rapidly evolving digital business world.

You will be expected to engage in learning activities to achieve these Programme learning outcomes. Assessment of your modules will reflect these learning outcomes and test how far you have met the requirements for your degree.

To pass the Programme, you will be required to meet the progression or accreditation and award criteria set out below.

Additional costs of the programme

For textbooks and similar learning resources, we recommend that you budget approximately £300. Some books may be available second-hand, which will reduce costs. A range of resources to support your curriculum, including textbooks and electronic resources, are available through the Central Library and the Business School Academic Resource Centre. Reading lists and module-specific costs are typically listed on the individual module descriptions.

Subject to your module selection, you may be required to purchase sundry materials (i.e., printing). Essential for printing and photocopying will be low as most coursework is submitted electronically.

Many students find it advantageous to have their own personal computing facilities, but there are central facilities available.

Costs are indicative and may vary according to optional modules chosen and are subject to inflation and other price fluctuations. The estimates were calculated in 2023.

For further information about your Programme please refer to the Programme Handbook and the relevant module descriptions, which are available at <http://www.reading.ac.uk/module/>.
