Programme information and content

The MSc in Finance aims to equip students with not only the necessary theoretical foundations of finance, but also, through a practice centred experiential approach, a set of highly practical skills and expertise sought after by major employers in the financial services industry. The wide range of modules gives students a broader choice of potential career paths in finance. Students benefit from interactive, technically advanced teaching and applied training, bespoke simulations, case-study based projects and masterclasses by our distinguished academics and industry guest speakers.

Programme Learning Outcomes

-MSc Finance (12 months) (full-time)

During the course of the Programme, you will have the opportunity to develop a range of skills, knowledge and attributes (known as learning outcomes) For this programme, these are:

Learning outcomes
1	Critically evaluate the theories and practices that can affect the value of derivatives, fixed income and equity securities in order to create optimal investment strategies.

2	Identify and evaluate the applied skills relevant to decision making in different disciplines such as trading, portfolio management, and analytical research, and develop and demonstrate these skills in a simulated trading environment.
3	Develop and demonstrate effective communication skills at an individual and organisational level relevant to the needs of diverse audiences.
4	Identify, develop and demonstrate employability and other transferable skills required in the finance sector, reflecting on their relevance in a competitive job market.
5	Critically evaluate the purpose of corporations and motives for corporate financial decisions, developing the ability to calculate the value of real corporations.
6	Develop and demonstrate the skills necessary to undertake company research using modelling techniques to create an equity research report, building an investment thesis, and recommending investment strategies using real company information.

You will be expected to engage in learning activities to achieve these Programme learning outcomes. Assessment of your modules will reflect these learning outcomes and test how far you have met the requirements for your degree.

To pass the Programme, you will be required to meet the progression or accreditation and award criteria set out below.

Module information

The programme comprises 180 credits, allocated across a range of compulsory and optional modules as shown below. Compulsory modules are listed.

Compulsory modules

Module	Name	Credits	Level
ICM337	Econometric Analysis for Finance	20	M
ICM401	Investments	20	M
ICM402	Financial Securities and Markets	20	M
ICM404	Career Success in the Future World of Work	20	M
ICM512	Corporate Financial Modelling for Investment Banking	20	M

The remaining credits will be taken from a predefined list of optional modules from the ICMA Centre, Henley Business School.

Part-time or flexible modular arrangements

This programme is only available on a full-time basis.

Placement opportunities

An optional Summer Term module gives students the opportunity to undertake a work placement.

Study abroad opportunities

Students may have the opportunity to study abroad by selecting a summer elective delivered abroad, either at Ca' Foscari University of Venice, Italy or ALBA Business School in Athens, Greece.

Optional modules

The optional modules available can vary from year to year. An indicative list of the range of optional modules for your programme can be found online in the Course Catalogue. Details of optional modules for each part, including any additional costs associated with the optional modules, will be made available to you prior to the beginning of the Part in which they are to be taken and you will be given an opportunity to express interest in the optional modules that you would like to take. Entry to optional modules will be at the discretion of the University and subject to availability and may be subject to pre-requisites, such as completion of another module. Although the University tries to ensure you are able to take the optional modules in which you have expressed interest this cannot be guaranteed.

Teaching and learning delivery

You will be taught primarily through a mixture of lectures and seminars. The majority of contact hours will be held face-to-face, but some teaching and revision classes may be held online. Some modules may include assessed group work. Module and seminar convenors hold office hours for one-to-one contact opportunities.

Student learning on this programme is expected beyond module contact hours through independent and rigorous reading, scholarship, research, and practice. Students will need to manage working towards strict deadlines and working well with others. They will also need to take initiative to improve their quantitative and computer-based skills. Career planning is also an integral part of the programme.

Teaching is organised over three semesters over a 12-month period, starting in September/October.

Elements of your programme will be delivered via digital technology.

The scheduled teaching and learning activity hours and amount of technology enhanced learning activity for your programme will depend upon your module combination. In addition, you will undertake some self-scheduled teaching and learning activities, designed by and/or involving staff, which give some flexibility for you to choose when to complete them. You will also be expected to undertake guided independent study. Information about module study hours including contact hours and the amount of independent study which a student is normally expected to undertake for a module is indicated in the relevant module description.

Additional costs of the programme

For textbooks and similar learning resources, we recommend that you budget approximately £300. Some books may be available second-hand, which will reduce costs. A range of resources to support your curriculum, including textbooks and electronic resources, are available through the Central Library and the Business School Academic Resource Centre. Reading lists and module-specific costs are typically listed on the individual module descriptions.

Subject to your module selection, you may be required to purchase sundry materials (i.e., printing). Essential for printing and photocopying will be low as most coursework is submitted electronically.

Many students find it advantageous to have their own personal computing facilities, but there are central facilities available. If students choose optional modules which are offered abroad, they may face additional costs for registration, travel and accommodation.

Costs are indicative and may vary according to optional modules chosen and are subject to inflation and other price fluctuations. The estimates were calculated in 2023.
